

Corvette

Cor Jesu Academy

May 2013

10230 Gravois Road St. Louis, MO 63123

Volume 55 Issue 5

Senior Edition: Class of 2013

Corette

MOST LIKELY TO:

Emily Ainsley: Most likely to take over for the Energizer Bunny when he retires.

Paige Allenspach: Most likely to move to California and never come back to St. Louis, and become president of every club on campus.

Maggie Amato: most likely to convince all of her sorority sisters at Alabama that she was actually born in the South, not just south county.

Claire Anglo: most likely to become CJ’s future track coach and start a new track diet that consists solely of popcorn, pretzels, nilla wafers, and cheez-its Jenny Antonacci: Most likely to drive from SEMO to Mizzou every weekend to visit her boyfriend Paul and train her kids to be world class soccer players.

Eliane Bachmann: Most likely to marry her boyfriend Kenny, speak 15 different languages, and never correct anyone when they call her Elaine.

Sarah Baldrige: Most likely to cry every day in college because she misses high school, and then later marry a Blues hockey player.

Maggie Banahan: Most likely to cry in every possible situation and then continue to laugh at the fact that she is crying.

Alex Bedborough: Most likely to stage-manage her way onto Broadway and become a millionaire stage-managing legend.

Christina Belt: Most likely to break the world record for most sneezes in 1 minute.

Sophia Benigno: Most likely to come back from college with a southern accent but no one will know because we won’t be able to hear it.

Alex Berry: Most likely to wear her kilt in class next year hoping the essence of Cor Jesu will flow back through her Ellen Boll: Most likely to admire too many people and become sentimental in odd circumstances.

Emily Brady: most likely to include her dog in her wedding day picture, and then have a mid-life crisis and become obsessed with her cat named Tippy.

Molly Burke: most likely to become a high-profile FBI spy but double as Ms. Colston’s math assistant at Cor Jesu

Michelle Burns: Most likely to be Ohio State’s most avid fan and devote the rest of her life to starting a charity named “Everyone Deserves Pancakes”.

Sarah Cafazza: Most likely to create her own series of home workout DVDs and then become an international sensation

Katie Cammarata: Most likely to marry her highschool sweetheart and move to Cali

Nikki Carenza: Most likely to become institutionalized for her Pinterest addiction

Lauren Carr: Most likely to get stranded on an island where there is only popcorn. And she would love every second of it.

Allie Carretero: Most likely to be mistaken for a reindeer and become the 10th of Santa’s sleigh and then move to Africa to start her own tribe.

Sofia Carretero: Most likely to make burnt toast the biggest drama of the day.

Anne Carron: Most likely to become the next Sr. Colleen

Samantha Chumley: Most likely to become a filthy rich fashion designer and trip in her 8-inch heels during her most important fashion show.

Kathleen Cihota: Most likely to become a wedding planner and devote her life to planning the wedding of Wil & Kate’s child.

Anna Cruzen: Most likely to hypnotize the world with her musical expertise and get a world peace award for her humbleness.

Cassie Dace: Most likely to ask all her professors if she can nap through their class.

Bethany Daus: most likely to say she’ll never come back to Cor Jesu but then eventually take Ms. Ahrens place, and add the word “Dausome” to the dictionary.

Anne Davis: Most likely to become Billy Blue Jay at Creighton University and then become a successful hand model

Haley Debandt: Most likely to become the most successful rap star that graduated from Nelly’s Ex’treme Institute of Saint Louis

Cara DeBellis: Most likely to move to Italy, write beautiful poetry, and run the world whilst rocking chic Mediterranean fashions

Damaris Dernlan: Most likely to move to Africa as a selfless missionary then return to the States 20 years later as a model/writer/artist extraordinaire.

Cecilia Detwiler: Most likely to win American Idol then tour all across the world

Michelle Deves: Most likely to marry the first person who pronounces her last name right

Abby Dolan: Most likely to wear her morph suit to her wedding.

Megan Dougherty: Most likely to fulfill her lifelong dream as Aeropostale manager and drive her minivan for the rest of her life

Regina Dufaux: Most likely to come back to take over the Campus Ministry at CJ, and eventually become a saint in the Catholic Church

Katie Dunn: Most likely to be quiet when she starts out in college but then make tons of friends due to her surprising witty comments.

Marie Dutton: most likely to move to Colorado, find a way to marry Harry Styles, and constantly remind him why he never should have dated TSwift.

Annie Enright: Most likely to draw scary clowns on every whiteboard in college.

Andrea Ernst: Most likely to sleep through her vet school classes and still manage to become “Dr. Dre”

Julia Esswein: Most likely to become a famous surgeon but lose credibility because she only talks to her patients in a Dr. Nefario-style British accent.

Mary Kate Faust: Most likely to take any awkward situation and make it exponentially more awkward just by standing there

Olivia Fernandez: Most likely to become the best police woman in STL

Ali Fossell: Most likely to buy a farm of German Shepherds and attempt to teach them how to be gamers

Andrea Frein: most likely to fracture a bone in her neck while whipping her hair but keep on dancing.

Sarah Freitag: most likely devote her life to creating 80s nostalgia films in the hopes that someday puffy hair, shoulder pads, leg warmers, and huge earrings will be in again.

Caroline Fugel: most likely to make friends with so many popular people in college and then make the “puppy pose” in pictures a bigger trend than sorority hand symbols.

Rachael Fulkerson: Most likely to have a million Chihuahuas and be able to quote every episode of “Friends”.

Catherine Gaines: Most likely to marry a country boy but drive a cooler truck than he does.

Jessi Gallardo: Most likely to have her own show, partly about baking and partly pure comedy, but be her own biggest fan, besides Maria Lucas.

Emma Gambaro: Most likely go to college, talk about Missouri Bakery, and then become hospitalized after going into shock when she discovers no one knows what MO Bakery is.

Kara Gibson: Most likely to never pay you back and be late on her wedding day.

Kate Gilfoil: Most likely to spend her life savings on nail polish and clothes from Marshalls

Allison Gmelich: Most likely to be late to her own wedding and eventually show up with a pink wedding dress

Kathleen Golterman: most likely to be on hoarders: buried alive

Natalie Groppe: Most likely to invent a dictionary of road rage and not be able to pay for her speeding tickets because of all the concert tickets she buys.

Molly Grunik: Most likely to become a spiritual mentor for Hunter Hayes, and end up living in a house full of cats and live of her supply of Gatorade.

Mary Guimbarda: Most likely to become a music manager for a famous band and live as far away from St. Louis as possible for the rest of her life.

Lexi Hannah: Most likely to graduate college and move back to Saint Louis where she opens an in house day care for Cardinal baseball players’ kids.

Alena Hegger: Most likely to return to CJ next year as a freshman to relive her high school glory days and live off donuts for the rest of her life.

Kara Heimburger: Most likely to live in the Amazon Rain Forest as a bird breeder and forever believe penguins live there.

Shannon Hess: Most likely to always correct people (mostly Marie Dutton) in how ironic and funny their story REALLY is.

Abby Hilliard: Most likely to own a business named Hilliard’s Billiards

Julia Hollaway: Most likely to open a farm in the middle of nowhere for the sole purpose of owning at least 50 cats and goats, where she can subtweet about people that make her mad in peace.

Elizabeth Horak: Most likely to be in debt because of college but still buy Cor Jesu a turf field and name it after herself and finally get her license at age 90.

Sarah Hostler: Most likely to remain tan and blonde until the day she dies.

Melanie Hosty: Most likely to make awkward sound effects for the rest of her life

Allie Howard: Most likely to end up on a dance show like “So You Think You Can Dance”.

Rachael Hughes: Most likely to have a pet giraffe.

Emily Hummel: Most likely to marry a Blues player and later have a spontaneous growth spurt

Emily Inserra: Most likely to invent a device to find her keys then lose the device before she can use it.

Theresa Jabouri: Most likely to ride up to someone on a horse and yell, “Good one!”

Allison Jedlicka: Most likely to become a pro hockey-team groupie.

Emily Karcher: Most likely to become a successful businesswoman with her own line of baby socks and the cutest children ever.

Brianna Kelly: Most likely to actually read the “terms & conditions” because she feels guilty about saying “I accept” without reading them.

Sarah Knese: Most likely to force her husband and bridesmaids to wear cheetah on her wedding day

Rae Koch: Most likely to be the next spokesperson of the ASPCA commercials when they start a campaign to save whales.

Emily Koehler: Most likely to marry someone who not only supports her fashion career in Paris, but also accepts her infatuation with every male celebrity out there.

Ellen Komlos: Most likely to be first lady (Laura Bush inspired) and known for wearing Lilly Pulitzer at every public appearance.

Ellie LaVigne: Most likely to have at least five kids and monogram everything she owns...including her husband’s boxers.

Anna Lehman: Most likely to marry the first band member who appreciates that she goes to every one of their concerts and follows them around the U.S.

Emily Lewis: Most likely to be in the Guinness Book of World records for the longest time of never putting her phone down.

Cassie Livingston: Most likely to have David Freese autograph a marriage contract.

Maria Llanos: Most likely to be the US Ambassador for Colombia after becoming internet famous.

Maria Lucas: Most likely to write a petition for eating to be an Olympic sport, sign it herself in hundreds of beautiful handwritings, then win ten consecutive gold medals.

Cassidy Manns: Most likely to show up 1 day a week to work and still make millions of dollars.

Elizabeth Mansfield: Most likely to be seen across campus with a box of Teddy Grams from her seemingly unlimited supply.

Mariela Mara: Most likely to be known for her catch phrase “Stupidddd Headddd” in college.

Abby Markus-Longland: Most likely to live in Alaska with a winter home in Florida on a clementine farm and marry Peter and have 4 boys and 2 girls.

Maggie McDonagh: Most likely to use her diplomat status to change the name “St. Patrick’s Day” to “National McDonagh Family Celebration Day”

Emily McGowan: Most likely to use knitting needles as her weapon of choice and have a fat cat as her companion of choice.

Bridget Mess: Most likely to miss every wedding she’s invited to because RSVP’ing would require actually responding to something.

Laura Milles: Most likely to take her dog Louie to college and continue to play every sport known to man.

Emily Milligan: Most likely to accidentally stumble upon a successful therapist job when random people continue to tell her all their problems

Abby Mispagel: Most likely to make a ton of friends in college because of her constant happiness and involvement in many extra-curricular activities, and have her handwriting become a font.

Corette

Christina Moellenhoff: Most likely to never live down her high school nickname of “Chomo” even when she gets a real job.

Rebecca Moore: Most likely to write a screenplay entitled “Rebecca” about a girl who was orphaned by her parents and had to survive senior year through song and dance.

Claire Mullaney: Most likely to be the tree expert on her campus & attempt to find a friend who loves trees & literature even more than Cowan does.

Rachel Narup: Most likely to marry a marine.

Francesca Nicaastro: Most likely to eat Italian food every day for the rest of her life.

Rebecca Nieters: Most likely to actively search out a ginger in order to proliferate the world’s race of gingers.

Claire Noles: Most likely to stalk Conor Kennedy (T swifts ex) until he agrees to marry her.

Shelby Nord: Most likely to win The Singing Bee.

Elise Ott: Most likely to marry the star of a band & tour the world with them & never go back to school.

Emily Otto: Most likely to marry an Irish Catholic and have 12 children

Katie Pahic: Most likely to be friends with every single one of the 20,000 students at Mis-souri State, and then send all her kids to Cor Jesu

Caroline Parker: Most likely to end up dating and breaking up with every boy in her college class twice and then become a cloistered nun out of tiredness of dealing with people.

Abbey Peltz: Most likely to sleep through all the most important events of her life because her track years stole all of her energy.

Kaitlin Petersen: Most likely to drastically change every four years and not be able to recognize her.

Claire Peterson: Most likely to disappear into a car heading to the 1920s while walking the streets of Paris at midnight and never been seen in this decade again.

Jennie Phillips: Most likely to open a boutique in Webster and offend her staff by smiling too much.

Sarah Pluff: Most likely to become senator of Missouri even after living in Illinois her whole life

Chaley Poth: most likely to marry into the Gallardo family

Katie Potter: Most likely to become a surgeon on a military base while being married to a man in uniform.

Lisa Puetz: Most likely to use the excuse “I baked a cake” to get out of trouble with her parents.

Mary Grace Quinlan: Most likely to become a famous singer

Jessica Renz: Most likely to create her own photography business and become the next CJ Photographer.

Megan Reschke: Most likely write a book of essays so beautiful that Ms. Cowan and Dr. Hohlt actually add it to the American Studies curriculum.

Christina Rudolph: Most likely to plan her entire wedding before she is engaged, and be mistaken for Caitlyn Slattery for the rest of her life.

Molly Ryan: Most likely to have a pantry containing only marshmallows, and a better stash of Disney coloring books than a 4 year-old.

Katie Sainz: Most likely to become a rich writer and spend all her earnings on pink 50’s memorabilia.

Faith Salamon: Most likely to get into a heated debate in every class she attends at Mizzou.

Bailey Schumm: Most likely to marry a musician and have little musically talented ginger babies.

Dani Sheahan: Most likely to save the world with her environmental engineering skills and have a new green Cor Jesu building named after her and Mr. White (her business partner).

Julie Shoemake: Most likely to live in the middle of nowhere, try to get MCR back together, and write a book about it

Annie Sieckhaus: Most likely to marry Dominic, be the best hockey mom St. Louis has ever seen, and send all of her children to Cor Jesu, CBC, or SLUH.

Christina Sinak: Most likely to marry a doctor, send all of her girls to Cor Jesu, and open her own sno cone business, as a side job to being a physical therapist, to compete with Sno Biz on Telegraph.

Caitlyn Slattery: Most likely to win a Nobel Prize in every subject and make her life profits off of taking the ACT for those who will pay.

Katie Spellmeyer: Most likely to spend the majority of her freshmen year of college with Mary Grace meeting southern boys and spending her free time on iwastesomuchtime.com

Lauren Spreen: Most likely to quit high school before graduation since she can’t stand her senioritis.

Hannah Stark: Most likely to buy a bow and some arrows, move to Scotland, and become a modern-day Princess Merida.

Kayla Struttmann: Most likely to have ten children and still never be stressed.

Katie Thieret: Most likely to only date guys over 6’5, so that he will be taller even when she wears her 5 in heels.

Lauren Thompson: Most likely to know every single song that comes out in the future before anyone else.

Claire Trebing: Most likely to become the next female astronaut after NASA becomes endorsed by the government

Meghan Uthoff: most likely to become the first female member of One Direction.

Kristen Wacker: Most likely to build up an amazing career and, later in life when she gets bored, settle down with her pet cat and teach a Calculus class with Ms. O’Brien at Cor Jesu.

Maddi Wahle: Most likely to marry her high school sweetheart

Anna Walsh: Most likely to be the richest alumni that graduated from Cor Jesu due to her success from school and spend her life earnings on Chihuahuas.

Kate Walter: Most likely to produce and sell her own handmade quills on her off days from being a surgeon

Meg Walukonis: Most likely to marry someone significantly less funny than her, just so she can repeat again and again, “You know I’m funny.”

Tess Wemhoener: Most likely to marry a boy from Notre Dame and both become doctors and have three soccer player valedictorian kids

Lexie Werckmann: Most likely to pronounce Schnucks “Snooks” for the rest of her life

Margaret Pate White: most likely to confuse classmates and teachers on the first day of college while explaining her name but win them over with her smile and positivity.

Libby Whyte: most likely to continue speaking in a silly Spanish accent & putting out funny tweets for the world to see her stream of consciousness.

Genny Willman: Most likely to be a crazy old cat lady by the time she is 22.

Jo Jo Winkelmann: Most likely to work at camp Lakewood her entire life and love every minute of it.

Lindsey Winkelmann: Most likely to be rejected from even the kids rides at six flags due to height.

Shannon Withington: Most likely to believe that she is actually the princess of Bolivia, marry a Bolivian prince, and reclaim her family’s royalty.

SENIOR SUPERLATIVES

The superlatives are voted on by the senior class.

Always cheerful Katie Pahic	Most dependable Claire Anglo	Most unorganized Bridget Mess	Biggest bookworm Claire Mullaney
Always out of uniform Mary Grace Quinlan	Most dramatic Sofia Carretero	Best attitude Christina Belt	Biggest klutz Christina Rudolph
Always Sleeping Andrea Ernst	Most friendly Regina DuFaux	Best car Maggie Amato	Biggest procrastinator Samantha Chumley
Always Singing Cecilia Detwiler	Most hair colors Jenny Antonacci	Best dancer Allie Howard	Biggest spaz Kristen Wacker
Always Tardy Cassidy Manns	Most involved Theresa Jabouri	Best dressed Maggie Banahan	Funniest Allie Carretero
Always eating Lauren Carr	Most laidback Faith Solomon	Best driver Elizabeth Horak	Palest Cecilia Detwiler
Most likely to be famous Damaris Dernlan	Most obsessed with Facebook Emily Brady	Best hair Hannah Stark	Quirkiest Emily McGowan
Most likely to appear on Broadway Emily Koehler	Most obsessed with Twitter Natalie Groppe	Best laugh Meg Walukonis	Suzy CJ Anne Carron
Most likely to be president Molly Burke	Most outgoing Christina Moellenhoff	Best musician Anna Cruzen	Worst car Michelle Deves
Most likely to teach at CJ Megan Reschke	Most organized Michelle Burns	Best nickname Christina Moellenhoff	Worst driver Kara Heimburger
Most ambitious Paige Allenspach	Most sarcastic Jessi Gallardo	Best role model Anne Carron	Worst senioritis Melanie Hosty
Most artistic Anna Cruzen	Most spirit Maria Lucas	Best sense of humor Libby Whyte	Class clown Andrea Frein
Most athletic Laura Milles	Most talkative Marie Dutton	Best smile Molly Ryan	Most changed since freshman year Kaitlin Petersen
		Best tan Shannon Withington

CLASS OF 2013 TOP 5 ANNOUNCED

Valedictorian
(1st Ranked)

Claire Mullaney is the valedictorian for the class of 2013. She will be attending Indiana University Bloomington in the fall. She is planning on majoring in Biology and possibly English as well. Her favorite class at Cor Jesu was American Studies. Claire said she will, “always remember working (and goofing off!) with the cast and crew of this year’s fall play, You’re a Good Man, Charlie Brown.” When Claire leaves Cor Jesu, she will miss all of her friends and teachers who are always so caring and supportive. Claire will be giving the valedictory address at graduation.

Salutatorian
(2nd Ranked)

Kristen Wacker was ranked second in the Top Five. As Salutatorian, Kristen will be making a speech at graduation. Kristen will be attending the University of Chicago in the fall, and plans to major in Mathematics and Political Science. Her favorite class was Calculus BC and her favorite teacher is Sr. Colleen, though Kristen says Ms. O’Brein and Ms. Cowen are close behind. When asked what her favorite memory was from CJ, Kristen said, “My favorite memory was watching Claire Mullaney ’13 be named Valedictorian from the front of the gym, and seeing the entire class erupt with cheers. I think it was the perfect testimony to the way every beautiful girl in my class supports and cares for the happiness and achievements of others.”

3rd Ranked

Caitlin Slattery was ranked third in the top five seniors this year. She is planning on majoring in mechanical Engineering next year at the University of Tulsa. Her favorite class/teacher at Cor Jesu was Engineering with Mr. White. The thing she will miss most about Cor Jesu other than her classmates (of course!) is the “supporting environment and great teachers.” Her most memorable moment at Cor Jesu was when Julia Esswein ’13 yelled “take it to the hospital” in the middle of Calc. She will be saying the class prayer during the Graduation Ceremony.

4th Ranked

Paige Allenspach ranked 4th in the Top Five. Throughout her years at Cor Jesu she has been extremely involved in all things spirit, being the Secretary of the Exec Board her Junior year and the President of Exec Board her Senior year. She states that the thing she will miss most about Cor Jesu is the overall spirit and bonding with her classmates. She plans major in Communication Studies, studying mostly PR, at the University of California in Los Angeles. Her favorite memory of Cor Jesu was her eighteenth birthday because it was the first day of her Senior year. Paige will miss the spirit at Cor Jesu and the bonding of her class. As fourth in the Top Five, she will be speaking at Honors Convocation.

5th Ranked

Emily McGowan is the 5th ranked student. She is going to Kansas University in the fall where she will study art and design. Emily’s favorite class at CJ was AP Art History with Ms. McGraw. She will miss Cor Jesu, especially not having to decide what to wear every day! When asked about her favorite CJ memory, she replied, “Definitely the time when I destroyed my assignment notebook and put a bucket in the cafe to raise money to buy a new one. It worked too!” Emily will be writing a speech that she will read at Honors Convocation.

A big thank you from the Corette staff to the senior class and all who helped make this edition possible.

2012-2013 Corette Editorial Board

Moderator: Mrs. Michelle Fank
Editor-in-Chief: Abby Mispagel ‘13
Layout Editor: Emily Inserra ‘13

Asst Layout Editor: Aly Cadice ‘14
Managing Editor: Katie Cammarata ‘13
Story Editor: Maria Simon ‘15
Photography Editor: Jessica Renz ‘13