To whom it may concern:

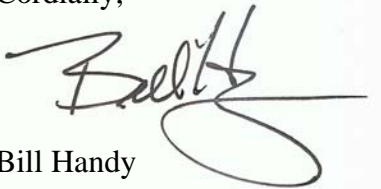

I am writing this personal reference at the request of Dallal AlFaddagh who is one of my students at Oklahoma State University.

I have known Dallal for two years in my capacity as a professor at Oklahoma State University. I had the pleasure to work with her in my Principles of Public Relations, Media Relations, Public Relations Communications Methods and Social Media courses. Based on Dallal's grades, attendance and class participation, I'd rate her academic performance in my class as superior.

Dallal has a number of strengths to offer any organization, the least of them being her desire to learn. Her presence in class and participation in discussion is exemplary. Additionally, her participation in group assignment is an asset to her peers. She has the ability to fully engage in any team project and focuses on creating an environment of open dialogue. Bottom line, Dallal is truly a model student and will be a positive addition to any organization.

Should you have any questions please do not hesitate to contact me directly.

Cordially,
