Ah, yes. This is the way TV was meant to be viewed.

A long night spent resolving tech-support issues. When the sun comes up, he's feeling a little wacky. But, that's cool—he got the job done.

Maybe you know one or two people like him. Refer them to EMC. It's a place that recognizes excellence. A place that appreciates individuality. A place with an office copier.

So what if their moves are a little too, uh, '80's? They just closed a multi-million dollar deal for the company. You might be doing the Macarena too.

If you know people like these, let's bring them to EMC. We know how important it is to recognize excellence, we value individuality, and we make room for those who like to boogie.
