RESCUE

Hi Hi Hi,

Roscoe here. Well, I have my new people pretty much whipped into shape. They've been busy moving things off of counters so that I don't get them down and chew on them a little. At first they were a little snotty about it, but I've got them wrapped around my front paw now.

I've got two new friends. T-Bone didn't like me at first, but now we're the best of friends. He's a little short and fat and he didn't get a nose. That's so sad, because everybody knows that a dog needs a nose.

My other friend looks a lot like me, but his mother must have taken drugs or something, because he's a lot smaller than me. He's ok, but he is a little grouchy.

We all run and play in the nice backyard and my new female person gives me lots to eat. She says I'm too thin, but I think she just wants to make me feel at home.

I've got this nifty new cage that has two doors!! I like it because when us dogs go to bed at night I have my own house to go to sleep in. And, in the morning my new friends bring my people to get me out and we go play.

I've got the neatest water bowl. It's big and white and my people push a handle on it and it puts nice new water in the bowl. My people don't like me to drink out of it, but I really like it.

Well, it's almost dinner time and my short fat friend is really looking forward to dinner. I can take it or leave it, but my female person really worries about me, so I eat to make her happy.

I really want to thank you and Ron and everybody else at VSGSR for giving me a chance to have such a nice place to live. I just know I'm going to fit right in and be the best pal for my new friends and I really like my new people.

Love,
Roscoe
