

Café Yumm!'s leadership in environmental responsibility is but one example of why the company has, two years in a row, made the Portland Business Journal's Top 100 List of Privately Owned Oregon Businesses. The award ceremony on June 24 announced Café Yumm! as number 17 on the list.

While growth and revenue has been delicious in the past few years, expansion has been careful and slower than planned. Some of this is due to the recession; however, a huge reason for unhurried expansion is finding the perfect location. Café Yumm!, so unique and original in its business, much like its bowls, requires a location that truly appreciates its value and positive contribution to a healthy lifestyle.

The small mom and pop restaurant that serves food much like you would eat at home is becoming a larger system that's truly growing in Oregon and hoping to expand into neighboring states. The company, so dedicated to its Triple Bottom Line of social, environmental and economic considers, is in no doubt stronger and more delicious than ever. With the opportunity of further expansion and its recognition of awards and phenomenal growth, Café Yumm! will only continue to improve and be a leader among businesses everywhere.
