

Throughout my experience with this internship class I have learned many qualities that I would not have learned prior to this. There were a lot of technical details that I did not know that I struggled on during this. Going all the way back from when we were searching for jobs to now ive learned so many useful tools. I believe this class was very helpful and was a class that I can actually use in the future as well.

I think the one thing that helped me the most in this class was the mock interview mainly because it was in front of an actual person in a very business like environment, and I actually got nervous and everything doing it. The mock interview also helped me because he went over exactly what I should have done an what my faults were and I think that was something that I have progressively been trying to change and fix, and its worked thus far. What I also liked about this was that it helped me with my actual interview since it was on the same topic and they both pretty much asked the same questions.

During my internship I learned a lot of qualities that I didn't even knew existed In this industry, I honestly learned the inside and outs of the industry. There were a lot of tedious things that I had to learn before I was actually able to progress and do stuff, a lot of learning and sitting and watching someone else do it until I learned it, but once I did, I was all on my own conducting and engineering tracks for several different artists. Every weekend I went to several different venues and several different shops to help promote the business as well. There was a lot of business acquaintances that I had to learn to make friendships so that we could earn their business. I also learned costs of running all the equipment and how much money an artist usually loses making an album or even a track. Which was very altering for me, this business is not a cheap business at all.

In class I learned that jobs right now in our economy are very hard to come by unless you know someone. In class at the beginning of the semester we all learned how to make a good resume, which for me I knew how to make one, but I had no clue how to make a good one so for me the resume is going to come in a great use and I can use it in the near future and tweak it whenever its needed. We also learned how to make an online resume which I could use for business's that only do online resumes as well. Another thing I found really helpful from this class was learning that we have to do cover letters and thank you letters. I found the cover letters very helpful because instead of a cover letter I used that as a live performance booking inquiry, which has no helped me get booked for events out of state as well. The thank you letter was also great help because it shows the person whom you're sending it to that you were interested and excited to work with them. Both of those are very big things that I will be using later on and something I can lean on for my future career in this field.

This class was an amazing learning experiences for me along side my internship. This is a class that I can take everything out of and put into good use in the future. This class has helped me realize that not only do you need business ethics but that you need to actually put yourself out there and make you a top candidate by making myself known.
