To whom this may concern,

Evan Morrison was assigned to me as a student teacher in his final teaching placement from February 6, 2012 to March 23, 2012. During his time here Evan was involved in many aspects of the school including teaching, professional development sessions and student evaluations. His teaching responsibilities included lessons in grade 7 and 8 science and grade 8 math. His lessons were always well-planned, interesting, engaging, challenging and fun. He easily developed a rapport with the students in each class. He promoted quality and accountability in his lessons. He demonstrated integrity and dependability in his daily work. He has a professional demeanor in the class and has excellent classroom management skills.

Evan is an outstanding individual who performs beyond expectations. He would be a vital asset in any work environment. It has been a pleasure working with him.

Sincerely,

Arnie Hamer
