About Clean Water Access:

Clean Water Access is a nonprofit organization in New York City that builds wells for millions of people who do not have access to clean water. The donations are used to fund projects in African and Asian countries. Nick Morris is the president and founder of Clean Water Access.

Clean Water Access has built 100 wells in five countries since the organization was started in 2010. Clean Water Access uses 85 percent of all donations to fund well building projects in Africa and Asia.

Mission Statement: To give people access to clean drinking water by drilling and building wells in countries that lack the resources to provide clean water.
