

Arts & Sciences Today

Date: 2008

Volume 10 Issue 1

Also in this year's issue of College of Arts & Sciences:

- Reaching across borders (Page 9)
- College welcomes changes (Page 13)
- Regents professor causing a 'buzz' (Page 18)
- Dean is honored (Page 21)

New home found in Murray Hall

After housing students for 50 years, Murray Hall has been renovated to house five departments within the College of Arts and Sciences. The residence-hall-turned-office-building cost $23.8 million, but the building has the same neo-Georgian vibe that made it a campus icon. Find out how the change is going in this year's edition of College of Arts & Sciences Magazine.

Morrill welcomes English department

The English department is now the sole occupant of Morrill Hall. English has had a presence in Morrill since 1966, and faculty and staff agree it is a suitable home for the department. Find out more about the transition in Arts & Sciences Magazine.

Environmental sociology professor makes impact

Riley Dunlap, an OSU Regents professor, is one of the founders of a field that studies the relationship between the environment and society. He has an international influence and he has watched his field grow as he continues researching and teaching at OSU. Learn more about his impact at OSU in Arts & Sciences Magazine.

Student lands a DC internship

Senior Trey Lewis interned with the Democratic Legislative Committee where he worked to help Oklahoma win a majority of its seats for democrats. All of his hard work paid off, and he got to meet presidential candidate Sen. Barack Obama. Read more about it in Arts & Sciences Magazine.

Alumnus returns to OSU after long career

Anne Scott taught everything from history to fashion, but returning "home" to OSU was her wisest choice. She had transferred to Texas Women's University in Denton, Texas, where she headed the alumni program. Find out more in Arts & Sciences Magazine.

