

A&S Alumni: In Touch

The official e-magazine for the College of Arts and Sciences, Oklahoma State University.

Sept. 13, 2012

Volume 1 Issue 1

Table of Contents

From Council to the World

A Rich Tradition

Join the Alumni Association

Program director leaves Stillwater

Former program director of the Alumni Association, Anne Scott, left OSU for new opportunities in Denton, Texas. The OSU alumna attributes her success to OSU.

New York native to OSU

Professor Charles Abramson involves his students in his research in order to develop critical thinking skills. His studies cover the behavior of honeybees and elephants.

Historical renovation

Murray Hall faces a makeover after OSU launched a $23.8 million project to fund the construction. Once an all girls' dorm, the new plans intend to keep the history of the building while adding newer technologies.

Experience from opportunity

Marcia Asquith, deputy corporate secretary for Washington, D.C., served as president of the A&S Student Council and believes the leadership skills and friendships she found at OSU continue to help her today.

Getting a head start

Starting early is the best advice junior and A&S student council treasurer, Germaine Paul, can give his fellow public relations students. He believes internships increase both knowledge and appreciation for PR as a profession.

Contact Information: Lorene A. Roberson at 405-744-7497 or lorener@okstate.edu

Also find us at www.cas.okstate.edu or www.twitter.com/osuartssciences