Follies
2012

The image features the text "Freshman Follies 2012" in a 3D, stylized font. The words "Freshman" and "Follies" are in a teal color with a white outline and a grey drop shadow, giving them a three-dimensional appearance. The year "2012" is also in teal with a white outline and a grey drop shadow. The text is set against a dark grey background with a sunburst pattern of radiating lines. The entire graphic is framed by a teal border at the top and bottom.

Freshman Follies has been a tradition of the Oklahoma State University Greek students for over 40 years. Held annually in the fall semester, Follies has allowed freshmen to light up the stage with singing, dancing, and "cheesing" since 1970. The event used to involve all students, but due to the level of Greek participation it has evolved into a fraternity and sorority event. This event allows students to live their Greek values of scholarship, philanthropy, brotherhood/sisterhood, and leadership out loud. A fraternity and sorority pair together, creating a ten-minute show consisting of original choreography, vocal arrangements, lyrics, crazy costumes and dialogue in an effort to highlight the pairings' chosen theme. Normally, this event is held in the Student Union, which is the hub of student activity on campus.

Each cast of approximately 40 freshmen is carefully selected by the directing team for the ten pairings. The planning of the shows begins throughout the summer months, and casts are given three weeks to learn two songs and a dance to tryout to make the Freshman Follies show that consists of the selected pairings who fall above the natural break in the tryout scores. This year, seven pairings were selected to continue perfecting their shows for ten weeks before it was time to perform in front of their peers, family and friends, and judges. Follies has become such a renowned event within the Oklahoma State community that people camp out in line with the hopes of purchasing one of the 2,400 available tickets, which sell out in around two hours each year.

Freshman Follies also has a Steering committee made up of around 40 member who are selected through an application and interview process. The students who are selected as Steering members are broken into committees and aid in the success of the production by helping with everything from tickets to stage production. The vocals and choreography committees even visit the various pairings to help improve what they are working on. The Steering members, directors, and cast members are all required to maintain a 2.5 GPA in order to participate in Freshman Follies.

Each show is judged on vocals, choreography, and showmanship. The showmanship category is based on "cheesing," an aspect that is unique to Freshman Follies in which the members of the cast move across the stage with obscenely over-the-top movements and crazy faces. Individuals who have not seen a Follies performance before may find this "cheesing" distracting, but it is something that has become a tradition because it is highly entertaining and is not something that you can find anywhere else. After a week consisting of rehearsals and performances, there is an awards ceremony where superlatives are awarded to each pairing and first through third place are announced. It is difficult to emphasize the capacity that Follies holds for everyone involved, but the fact that graduating seniors have referred to Follies as their favorite college experience says a lot. The Greek community has truly embraced this spirit of competition throughout the years and was thrilled to participate in Freshman Follies' first annual charity event this year, "Cheesing for Charity." The performance will benefit Positive Tomorrows, a private school for homeless children from kindergarten to 5th grade in the Oklahoma City area.

In addition to the three judged performances, we decided to hold one extra performance that would benefit Positive Tomorrows. Positive Tomorrows is a private school in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma for homeless children that range from kindergarten to fifth grade. This school receives no funding from the state and relies strictly on private donations. The profits from the ticket sales for this performance, as well as the collections taken up during the intermission each night were donated to Positive Tomorrows. Thanks to the willingness of the performers, and the giving attitudes of the community, Freshman Follies was able to donate $8,218.54 to Positive Tomorrows this year.

Following the Freshman Follies production each year, members who were involved in the production are given evaluations and asked for their input on how to make Follies even more of a success in the future. The feedback from this year was overwhelmingly positive and supportive of the newfound tradition of "Cheesing for Charity."

MEAGHAN HOOSE is a Senior Accounting and Management major from Edmond, Oklahoma. She is currently working on attaining her Master's in accounting as well. In her four years at Oklahoma State she has had the opportunity to be involved in various organizations including the Executive Councils of Panhellenic Council, Student Government Association, and her Panhellenic affiliation's executive council. Throughout her involvement on campus and in her chapter one of her favorite events to participate in has been Freshman Follies. She has participated in Follies as a cast member her freshman year, a director for her chapter her sophomore year, the Freshman Follies Assistant Executive Director last year, and is thrilled to be this year's Freshman Follies Executive Director. Meaghan hopes that everyone involved in Freshman Follies is impacted in the same positive way that she was. She would like to thank steering, the advisors, the directors, and especially all of the Follies for all of their hard work and enthusiasm.

BLAIR HANEBAUM is a Junior Design, Housing and Merchandising major from Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. She is currently focusing on her Apparel Merchandising Option. This will be Blair's third year to be involved with Freshman Follies. This experience with Freshman Follies has played a large role in her college career, thus far. Blair is currently serving as this year's Assistant Executive Director for the Freshman Follies production. Blair also enjoys serving her Panhellenic affiliation's executive council as the Vice President of philanthropy. She is hopeful that her excitement for Freshman Follies will spill over onto all casts, directors, and steering members that are involved with Freshman Follies 2012. Blair would like to sincerely thank each person who has touched Freshman Follies this year!

A long time ago, in a small village nestled in a large, enchanted forest, lived Little Red Riding Hood. Life in the village was usually safe and worry-free, but when Red's grandma fell ill, it was up to Red to deliver the medicine that would save her. But, as the brave Huntsman warned Red, the journey to Grandma's house wasn't easy, for she stumbled upon the deceitful Big Bad Wolf, who hatched a plan to capture Little Red Riding Hood and her grandma. Will Red see through the Wolf's trick, or will she fall for his carefully laid trap?

SINGING IN THE RAIN

It is a calm, clear, summer night, when two young lads decide to camp out. Their evening begins with smores, games, and fun! As the night wind lulls them to sleep a gentle pitter, patter of rain begins to fall.. However this is no typical rainstorm. The boys start to get very nervous but are too afraid to say anything out loud! As the storm grows, and the thunder and lightning join the party; these lads hope that the sun will soon arrive! Who knows maybe it will....

From the '50s through the '70s, there was no greater flying experience than Pan American Airways. Its experienced and professional staff delivered onboard service and cuisine with a personal flair that has rarely been equaled. But what about the crew's own experience? Could love be in the air for a veteran pilot and a bright-eyed stewardess? Fasten your seatbelts, turn off all electronic devices and return your seat to its upright and locked position as we travel back to a very special flight in the golden age of flying with Pan Am.
