

Parent Brag Sheet

1. What do you consider to be the outstanding accomplishments of your child during the past three or four years? Why did you select these as the most important? Madison joined her high school newspaper, and served as a staff writer, as well as a feature editor. I feel that this was an important step for her to overcome her insecurities of sharing her work with everyone. She has always had a strong desire to write short stories, poetry and songs, and has always excelled at it. Writing for a newspaper knowing her work would be “out there” for everyone to see was somewhat intimidating at first but exciting at the same time and I know she has found it very rewarding.

2. In what areas has your child shown the most development and growth during the past three to four years? She has certainly grown more into a strong individual who knows who she is and is not afraid to go after what she wants. She has always challenged herself when it came to academics, but now she challenges herself in other ways that have helped her develop her own unique style. I am most proud of the fact that she is not afraid to stand up for what she believes in and does not “go with the crowd” for the sake of argument.

3. What do you consider to be his/her outstanding personality traits? Madison is extremely outgoing and friendly. She is a devoted friend and everyone’s defender. She is very honest and true and dislikes anyone who puts on a facade. She is not afraid to question what she may not understand as she likes to consider all aspects to a situation in order to carefully determine the best way to approach a resolution.

4. What are the best five adjectives that describe your son/daughter? Brave, honorable, kind-hearted, trustworthy, determined

5. Are there any unusual or personal circumstances that have affected your child’s educational experience? Madison was raised in a military family and has had to move almost every other school year, with the exception of high school. Through it all, she has adapted very well because of her ability to easily make friends and adapt to her surroundings. If anything, it has enhanced her confidence in herself and made her more independent.
